U. S. 'Marvelously Prosperous' Ike Says; Brief Slump To Fade

Bypass Foes Outline Plan To End Fight

Suggest City Could Give Consent, But Dodge Expense

Less than a week before another showdown vote comes due in the Route 23 bypass controversy, foes of the re-routing plan late Wednesday outlined a possible compromise agreement that would reportedly relieve the city of heavy cost obligations.

In substance, the plan would have the city vote "consent" for the bypass without offering to share costs. The state would then proceed to obtain property rights along the bypass route, and the city would promptly withdraw the corporate limits after this is done to avoid costs now being considered.

The proposal—part "consent" and part "detachment"—was described by a spokesman for opponents of the bypass who said such a plan would draw almost certain approval in City Council. The proposed compromise came almost simultaneously with a public appeal in which the bypass group warned that Council plans to defeat the latest bypass action when the lawmakers meet next Tuesday night.

In recent criticism of the bypass planning, Councilman George Crites has insisted "we would go along with" a final detachment move to avoid costs to the city if "the state would come down here first and condemn the land needed." Foes of the bypass have frequently contended "the state should prove just where it plans to build the bypass and when" before the city takes final action.

THERE WAS no immediate opinion as to legality of the proposed compromise, and bypass supporters cautioned the plan may "only be something to take the steam out of Tuesday night's meeting." The bypass group has announced only three votes appear certain for the present "bypass or" (Continued on Page Two)

Pentagon Swirls In Test Of Power

Silent Battle On Between Defense Secretary, Military For Control

WASHINGTON (AP)—A test of power is on at the Pentagon to determine whether the authority of the defense secretary is supreme in the military establishment.

The handling of the cases of American soldiers who decided to stay with their Communist captors in Korea or of those who later changed their mind, it became apparent today, is involved in this behind-the-scenes situation.

The issue of central control has cropped up before, however. Secretary of Defense Wilson has publicly taken the responsibility for ordering the Army to discharge dishonorably the 21 Americans who have decided to stay with the Communists. Some Army legal experts hold that nothing in military law allows the issuance of dishonorable discharge orders without trial by court-martial. Wilson says he thinks he has the authority.

There was the related incident of the Army's sudden announcement of the arrest, on court-martial charges, of Cpl. Edward Dickenson, the Virginia soldier, who reversed his original decision to stay with the Reds. There the issue was one of the Army's timing and the wording of its announcement.

OUTSIDE THE Army, every high official, including President Eisenhower and Wilson, was startled and disturbed by the announcement last Friday. The Defense Department was reported to have asked both the Army and Marines to hold up on any action or announcement in prisoner of war cases until all efforts to win back the remaining 21 had been made and not take any action at all before the following Tuesday.

Eisenhower said at his news conference yesterday he thought there must be something else in the Dickenson case other than his original decision to remain with the Reds. Dickenson is charged with having intercourse with the enemy and seeking to secure favorable treatment while he was an inmate of a Communist prison camp.

The President also said he was (Continued on Page Two)

But President Asks Congress To Eye Future

Chief Ready To Use Vast Power To Battle Possible Depression

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today termed the nation "marvelously prosperous" and predicted recovery this year from a "brief and self-correcting" business dip, but pledged to use the government's vast powers to combat a depression if one should develop.

He proclaimed readiness, whenever necessary to avert a depression, to cut taxes, liberalize credit and launch large-scale public works even at the cost of new deficit financing.

And he gave forceful notice, in his economic report to Congress, that it should take "bold steps" requested in his 1954 legislative program to "protect and promote economic stability."

The program, he said, includes the protection of millions more workers under unemployment and old-age insurance, and bigger benefit payments; federal aid for public works planning; stimulants to housing; tax revision; highway improvement; a new farm program; and a tariff program to encourage foreign trade.

ALL THIS is "immediately advisable action," Eisenhower said, adding that if he finds more power is needed, he will ask for it promptly.

Briefly, Eisenhower's economic message made these points:

1. Forecast recovery this year from the business dip.
2. Pledged all-out anti-depression measures, when and if needed.
3. Reported the nation "marvelously prosperous" with employment high.
4. Called on Congress for "bold steps" to strengthen the economy.

Missing was an expected request for an increase in the 75-cent hourly minimum wage. Secretary of Labor Mitchell recently reported that the administration was exploring means to raise it to "a more realistic level." But Eisenhower told Congress today that the time is not ripe.

Of his economic program, outlined in a 35,000-word message, Eisenhower said:

Dulles Shuns Red Peace Indications

Molotov's Hint On Asian Accord Gets American's Cold Shoulder

BULLETIN

BERLIN (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov proposed to the Big Four today the calling of a world conference this year on general reduction of armaments.

BERLIN (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles charged in the Big Four conference today Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov is trying to supersede the United Nations with a council of five powers including Red China. Dulles demanded for the third straight day that the conference get to the problem of Germany at once.

Dulles, opening the fourth day's meeting, loosed a blistering attack on Foreign Minister Chou En-lai of Communist China.

He asked: "Who is this Chou En-lai whose addition to our circle would make possible solution of all our problems?"

He described Chou as a leader of a regime which gained power through a bloody war, became an open aggressor in Korea, and even now continues to promote aggression in Indochina.

"Such is the man Mr. Molotov proposes would enable us to solve all the world's problems," the American diplomat declared.

DULLES CLAIMED that in arguing here for a five-power meeting, Molotov has been playing on the hopes raised when the United Nations was formed in 1945 in order to justify transferring those hopes to a council of the five powers.

The fact is, Dulles continued, Molotov is trying to replace the United Nations with a council of five which he said would take over running the world.

The Dulles argument hit hard at the five-power conference suggestion which all three Western ministers have already rejected.

But at the same time, the Western delegations are extremely sensitive to peace hopes, especially with respect to Indochina. They were clearly determined to explore all possibilities of a settlement in case Molotov has anything serious in mind.

Yesterday, the Soviet foreign minister dangled glittering indications of peace and world prosperity. (Continued on Page Two)

Lausche Asks Tighter Law On 'Charities'

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Gov. Frank J. Lausche today called on the 101st General Assembly which meets next January to consider new laws to throw a body-block into charity rackets.

His stand, expressed in a letter to the Springfield Daily News, was bolstered promptly by State Sen. Ted M. Gray (R-Miami) who said he believes Ohio could well follow the lead of legislative recommendations made recently in the New York Legislature.

Lausche wrote to the News to express his agreement with a recent editorial printed by the newspaper. The editorial, entitled "Ohio Should Act," pointed out laws adopted by the New York Legislature would be of no benefit or protection to the people of Ohio against unscrupulous promoters who bilk the public under the guise of legitimate charity.

In his letter to the News, Lausche said: "I of course read accounts of expenditures incurred, and monies distributed out of what seemed to be legitimate charitable objectives. The amount that eventually went to charity was shockingly low. Based upon the fear that similar situations may frequently exist in connection with solicitation for funds being made in Ohio, I have steadfastly refused to allow the use of my name as a sponsor unless solid and genuine information has been provided for me about the legitimacy of the collection. "In my opinion, the next General Assembly ought to deal with the subject."

Deputy Radcliff Jails Alleged Fagin In Car Raids By Juveniles

An alleged Circleville Fagin, who allegedly is head of car-climbing band of juveniles operating in and out of the city, was being questioned Thursday by Deputy Sheriff Carl Radcliff.

Deputy Radcliff said that a boy, playing with and using a stolen glass fishing rod as a whip, led to the arrest of Thomas E. Riffle, 27, of 122-1/2 E. Main St., as the suspected Fagin.

In addition to Riffle, Radcliff took into custody two Circleville boys, one of whom has been turned over to Pickaway County juvenile authorities.

Questioning of the boys, Radcliff declared, pointed a finger at Riffle, who allegedly has been accepting a wide variety of property stolen from parked automobiles in all sections of the city and parts of the county.

RIFLE HAS been held since Tuesday night in the county jail on an open accusation, but will face Municipal Court Judge Sterling Lamb on a specific accusation before the week has ended, Radcliff said.

Radcliff, who explained he had been alarmed by the increasing number of complaints from automobile owners during the last two months, said he got his first break in the case this week when a Circleville merchant reported to him that a boy was playing with an expensive fishing rod and reel which the businessman believed stolen from his property.

Supreme Court Bans Photos During Trials

COLUMBUS (AP)—The state Supreme Court has banned the taking of photographs and radio or television broadcasts from all Ohio court rooms during sessions.

Chief Justice Carl V. Weygant indicated there would be no avenue for an appeal of the ruling. He said court rules are final and the Legislature lacks authority to control court conduct.

Justice Weygant remarked that Ohio is one of the states following a theory that courts have inherent rule-making power "so long as the rules they made are not contrary to the Constitution or to a valid state statute."

The rule was one of 36 canons of judicial ethics recommended by the American and Ohio state bar associations. The state bar association, in May 1952, asked the judicial ethics recommended by the state bar. The reference to television broadcasts was added by the seven-member court.

The canon banning photographs, broadcasts and telecasts reads:

"Proceedings in court should be conducted with fitting dignity and decorum. The taking of photographs in the court room during such proceedings and the broadcasting and the televising of such proceedings from the courtroom tend to detract from the essential dignity of the proceedings, distract the witness in giving his testimony and create misconceptions with respect thereto in the mind of the public and should not be permitted."

Justice Weygant said the ruling constituted a ban and "is binding on all courts of record, including municipal courts."

Decks Clear For Voting On Unification

The Pickaway Community Health Council had its decks cleared Thursday for the important vote on whether the organization should recommend unification of local health departments.

Authorized delegates to the council, a county-wide organization, will vote on the question at a meeting to be held in the First Methodist Church. The meeting is scheduled to start at 8 p. m. Thursday.

Officers of the council, while stressing that only authorized representatives will be permitted to vote, extended an invitation for the public to attend. Mayor Robert Hedges and City Health Director Oscar Root planned to be present.

The city board of health has gone on record in favor of merging the city's health department with that of Pickaway County. Root, however, has said he still holds an "open mind" as to the advantages of such unification.

In addition to voting on the proposed merger, members of the health council will elect new officers. Mrs. Dick Tootle is presently serving as president.

It's 'High Time' Americans Shelve Present Farm Plan, Benson Claims

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson said today it is "high time that thinking Americans take stock and heed the warning" of President Eisenhower that present farm programs are not in the best interest of agriculture and the nation.

Addressing a farm conference being held by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, the GOP farm chief appealed for public support for a new agricultural program outlined to Congress by the President earlier this month. It features controversial flexible price supports in contrast to the present program of rigid supports for major crops.

"The President's program," the secretary said, "charted a course for increasing farm income on an over-all, year after year basis. At the same time it provided for easing the strain on the federal Treasury and the consumer. It should be the people's program."

In his farm message to Congress Eisenhower said the present program of mandatory high price floors was discouraging sales and causing the creation of costly surpluses of farm products.

"In addition to the economic aspects of the Eisenhower plan, I'm sure it will strengthen the social bond between farmers and urban consumers," Benson said.

"It is designed to keep the cost of farm assistance within reasonable limits and at the same time provide protection to our food and fiber supply."

He added: "We have reached the point where we must let price have some influence in determining the direction of production and consumption."

The secretary said some of his critics have charged he wants to eliminate inefficient farmers.

"Frankly, the plowing under principle was a favorite of some groups some years ago," he said. "It certainly is not mine. I believe in increasing agricultural eficiency at every possible turn."

Undersecretary of Agriculture True D. Morse said restrictions on farm production imposed this year to combat surpluses may turn out to be a "serious shock" to business and the national economy.

The farm cutbacks are being forced upon farmers by present farm price support programs, he said, adding that the programs are pricing some crops out of markets and creating surpluses.

"It will take less financing, labor and business to handle a restricted volume of production, especially when it is the important crops that are cut back," he said.

Are Pipe-Smokers Most Law-Abiding Class?

NEW YORK (AP)—If a man smokes a pipe is he less likely to rob a bank, strike his wife, or saw his mother-in-law in half?

The nation has an estimated 18 million regular or parttime pipe smokers. Are they a more law-abiding class than other type smokers?

To get the answer to this great social question Morris L. Levinson, president of a pipe manufacturing firm, polled 200 police chiefs.

The statistics, like most statistics, seem to prove pretty much whatever you want to believe

To begin with, 131 police chiefs didn't reply at all. Of the 69 police chiefs who did respond to the poll, 22 ducked the issue by saying they had no figures on the smoking habits of their local criminals.

The remaining 47 police chiefs more or less bore out Levinson's hopeful faith that pipe smokers make good family men, rarely cause the cops trouble, and seldom kick small dogs around.

A few comments:

The prefect of police in Paris, France, regretted he had no statistical data but admitted he smoked a pipe himself.

"John McGraw of the New York Giants put thumbs down on ballplayers that smoked a pipe because they were the 'peaceful' type," wrote Chief J. Detectives George Lofquist of Sacramento, Calif. "McGraw claimed they lacked fighting spirit and I believe he was right."

"Older men are pipe smokers, and crime reports reveal that the younger age groups predominate in crime," said Chief Roy D. Kerr of Tacoma, Wash.

"I do not smoke at all myself," said police officer L. M. Hilton of Ogden, Utah, but acknowledged pipe smokers committed few homicides in his area.

"We have had dealings with thousands of criminals here, and I cannot recall one of the 'big-time' criminals smoking a pipe," commented Chief O. A. Booke of Meridian, Miss. "On the contrary, they chain-smoked cigarettes, many of them taking only a couple puffs before stubbing it out and lighting another."

"Pipe smokers seem to have less nervous tension," wrote Police Supt. Leo Kuddy of Scranton, Pa.

"It would appear pipe smokers come from the more stable social group," observed Chief S. G. Hauckedahl of Kenosha, Wis.

"Pipe smokers are generally older, more settled persons than are the cigarette smokers, and it naturally follows that the cigarette smokers will be more numerous among the law violations," said Chief Ray Blankenship of North Little Rock, Ark.

It seems this poll raises more questions than it answers.

What shape of pipe and what brand of tobacco will make pipe smokers even more lovable?

Would pipe smoking by wives make them more peaceful?

Does the country really need a good 5-cent cigar, or would it just create new worries for the police?

Who commits the most crimes, the regular cigarette smoker, the filtered cigarette smoker, or the guy who likes 'em king size?

And how about snuff? A lot of people take snuff secretly; who knows what else they may be up to?

disturbed when he read newspaper reports of the Army's action and immediately called Wilson to be certain that justice was done.

Dickenson yesterday was given a medical clearance and transferred from the Army's Walter Reed Hospital here, where he had been arrested, to Ft. Belvoir, Va., 15 miles away. The Army named Col. James Jewett Carnes to head the group which will make a preliminary inquiry to determine whether Dickenson shall face court-martial.

There was disposition in some defense quarters today to believe that the plan to announce the arrest of Dickenson Friday night was known in high Army quarters.

DEFENSE officials emphasized there was no question of the right of the Army to prefer the charges against Dickenson, that the issue was over the failure to advise top defense officials that the Army proposed to make the announcement prior to the time urged by the department.

Earlier incidents which caused annoyance in top defense quarters included publication of a story, attributed to a high Navy official saying that the atomic submarine Nautilus was only a test vehicle, not intended for combat use. Wilson denied this report and let it be known he wanted to find out who in the Navy was the source.

Before that there was unhappiness over the report issued by a commission appointed by the Army to recommend on Army reorganization. The report criticized the defense secretary for not taking the secretary of the Army into full confidence on important matters involving the Army.

Mystery Skeleton Taken To Capital

Parts of a disjointed human skeleton, discovered Tuesday near Circleville, were turned over to Ohio State University Hospital and morgue late Wednesday.

The bones were delivered by Sheriff Charles H. Radcliff and Deputy Sheriff Carl Radcliff after Dr. Ray Carroll, county coroner, had completed a cursory examination.

Meantime, Sheriff Radcliff revealed he has been receiving calls from various parts of Ohio telling of missing persons, but is unable to give definite answers until he receives a report from Columbus.

dinance" in Council, a "consent" measure under which the city would share costs of construction, right-of-way and maintenance.

Obvious intent of the warning was to alert bypass backers for the next Council session, when the measure comes up for final reading. State highway department officials said they will give it "very favorable consideration" if it reaches Columbus.

Under the pending ordinance, the city would "chip in" $10,000 toward preliminary costs and agree to maintain any section of the bypass built through the community. Instead of this, the spokesman for opponents suggested, "let the city give its consent, period—without promising any money." Then, after the state obtains rights to the land it needs for the bypass, City Council would pass a "detachment" ordinance to pull the corporate limits back to the eastern edge of the route marked for the new highway.

Few if any property owners would insist upon keeping land west of the bypass within the city, the suggested plan continues, because of difficulty in access across the new highway. Also, "once people are certain just where the road will be," there would be no serious obstacle in the way of a detachment action anyway, opponents claim.

They also contend the city, "if it really had to do it to satisfy property owners with land west of the bypass," could "detach" only the route of the bypass itself—a move which would technically separate a portion of the city from the main corporation merely to avoid the bypass costs.

of emergency measures, for the current situation clearly does not require one.

"Instead, it is a program for stimulating economic growth and minimizing any chance there may be of serious economic difficulty in the future."

He set this goal for the economy: "an increasing national income, shared equitably among those who contribute to its growth, and achieved in dollars of stable buying power."

HE REPORTED national production at a record $367 billion. "Employment is high, prices are steady, and wages and profits are generally satisfactory," he said.

But "there can be no certainty" that the late-1953 dip in business activity will not become a broader and deeper movement than the "minor adjustment" thus far recorded, he cautioned.

He described the contraction as mainly an inventory adjustment—a production slowdown intended to reduce the rate of accumulation of stocks, and continued:

"Our economy is basically strong, the current economic adjustment seems likely to be brief and self-correcting, but the situation must not be viewed with complacency."

"Unless the government is prepared and willing to use its vast powers to help maintain employment and purchasing power, even a minor readjustment may be converted into a spiraling contraction."

Chapters of the message were devoted to broad lines of approach toward economic stability. Summarized, they said:

1. Taxes. As rapidly as government spending can be reduced, "taxes should be brought down," but it would be "unwise to enact a further broad reduction in taxes at this time."

SOME TAX improvements should be made immediately "to strengthen the forces of growth in employment and production." Here were listed many of the changes Eisenhower urged in his budget message, some of which have already been approved by the House Ways and Means Committee.

Tagged "for future study" were possibly more important tax changes in the field of excise taxes and the capital gains tax.

2. Housing and finance. The President renewed all the recommendations made in his special housing message Monday.

These included liberalized federal underwriting of mortgages on lower-priced homes; larger loans for repair and modernization; and federal grants and loans to cities which make planned attacks on slums and neighborhood decay.

He added two items: first, a recommendation that the Federal Housing Administration be permitted to insure mortgages up to $20,000 instead of $16,000; and second, disclosure that the government is studying measures to protect homeowners from foreclosures and loss of their homes in case of an economic slump.

3. Agriculture. The President reported that "rapidly mounting farm surpluses make it clear that agriculture continues to face many serious economic problems." He again urged enactment of the farm program sent to Congress earlier this month, including a "gradual" transition to flexible crop price supports.

The Winorr Canning Co. announced Thursday that John Welch will retire next Monday as superintendent of the firm. Failing health prompted the decision, the company said.

Welch became associated with the company in 1915. He served with the U. S. Army during World War I and, following his discharge in 1919, has remained with the company here.

He succeeded the late Ralph Himrod in 1935 as superintendent of the Circleville plant. Other personnel changes, recent or planned, were also announced by the company as follows: Creighton Leist, who has been warehouse superintendent since 1935, will become factory superintendent.

WILSON R. CLARK, associated with the firm since 1906, retired Jan. 1 due to reasons of health. He had served as salesman and assistant superintendent.

Clifford Starkey, who has been assistant warehouse superintendent since 1941, will become superintendent of that department.

The firm said that Charles G. Mead, 90, an employee of the company since 1907, continues with the cannery as day watchman.

GOP Leaders Like Dem Plan Over Bricker's

Senator George's Idea Seen As Compromise In Bitter Debate

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Republican leaders leaned today toward an alternate proposal by Sen. George (D-Ga) but Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) pushed on with his own measure to limit constitutional treaty powers.

The Ohioan, ticking off the objections President Eisenhower has raised to his proposed amendment, tabbed one after another as "untrue" and "100 per cent wrong" in a Senate speech today.

Without giving a final rejection, Bricker turned aside as unsatisfactory to him in its present form a measure offered by George yesterday.

George's suggested compromise would (a) nullify any future treaties and international agreements that conflict with the constitution and (b) provide that executive agreements other than treaties could become internal law only by act of Congress.

This was offered as a substitute for Bricker's proposal which, in a clause opposed vigorously by President Eisenhower, says "a treaty shall become effective as internal law in the United States only through legislation which would be valid in the absence of treaty."

EISENHOWER contends this would give the states power to repudiate some treaties. Bricker says that is not true. George said his proposal would eliminate the effect of the "which" clause.

George, who will be 76 years old tomorrow and who has rounded out more than 30 years of Senate service, appeared to have come up with a suggestion that Eisenhower's Senate lieutenants might clutch as the basis for further efforts to compromise a fight that has split Republicans.

Senate debate on the Bricker proposal began yesterday before a packed gallery.

Sen. Knowland of California, the GOP floor leader, hurried a draft of the Georgian's proposal to the White House, State and Justice Departments.

George himself said he had discussed it with Eisenhower but gave no indication of the President's reaction.

Sen. Ferguson of Michigan, chairman of the GOP Policy Committee, indicated he believes some slight revisions might make it acceptable to Bricker. But he declined to forecast the administration's final attitude.

Sen. John S. Cooper (R-Ky),

21 Singing American POWs Leave For Communistic Life

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Twenty-one singing, chanting Americans and one Briton who renounced their homelands to stay with the Communists today rolled northward in flag-bedecked trucks toward a life behind the Bamboo Curtain.

And in Tokyo, the U. N. Command said officially that at least 9 of the 21 were accused as stool pigeons who betrayed fellow POWs to the Communists.

The former Allied soldiers, along with 325 South Koreans, carried Red "peace dove" banners as they marched from their barbed wire compound in Korea's neutral zone.

They sang, cheered and shouted charges of imperialism and germ warfare at the Western world as they boarded big green trucks for the trip north.

The prisoners laughed and joked as they boarded the trucks. And they were still smiling and waving a half hour later when their trucks rolled through the Communist check point and into Red territory to the north.

ALL OF THE Americans are to be given dishonorable discharges by the U. S. Defense Department.

Some said they planned to visit Communist China and that they are "free men." Others refused to answer when asked where they would go.

Communist newsmen said special camps had been prepared for the men in Kaesong and that a gala welcome awaited them.

In interviews before leaving the compound, all of the men said emphatically that the believed American fliers dropped germs on North Korea.

Aaron Wilson of Urania, La., said he was sure the charges were true because "I saw the planes drop them."

"How could you tell they were germ bombs?" he was asked.

who is fighting Bricker's version, said George's measure "is the best that has been offered yet."

AS GEORGE explained his proposal, it would subject international agreements and treaties to court review on their constitutionality. Knowland said this section was acceptable to everybody.

In its second section, the George proposal would make all international agreements which touch on internal laws effective domestically only by vote of both houses of Congress. This would eliminate the states from acting on such agreements, even though they might alter voting rights, divorce and other state laws.

George said he didn't include treaties in this category because he feels that the requirement of a two-thirds approval vote in the Senate is sufficient to protect the states' rights.

Dulles Shuns Red Peace Indications

ity before Dulles, British Foreign Minister Eden and French Foreign Minister Bidault yesterday if they would agree to admit Red China to a five-power parley.

Such a parley, Molotov told them, could consider the "situation in Asia," an obvious reference to Indochina and Korea.

Diplomats closely associated with the three Western ministers said they were agreed Molotov's intentions must be explored, his purposes made clear for the world to see, and his genuine peace offers quickly taken up.

QUALIFIED informants said any French government would find it impossible to reject a genuine offer of an Indochinese settlement or even negotiations.

At the same time they expressed the view that Russia's move could be designed as much to delay French parliamentary approval of the European army plan as to bring about any relaxation in Asia and any improvements in relations with Red China.

According to all available information from official sources, Dulles, Bidault and Eden are convinced that Molotov at this point is playing peace as a lure to win acceptance of Red China as a great power.

They think he is holding out hopes which in any such conference would be mostly, if not entirely, shattered.

Their conviction in this regard, as Eden has stressed, is buttressed by Molotov's stalls on negotiating on Germany.

But the Western ministers were reported determined not to pass up any real move toward peace by the Russians.

One clear purpose was to insure that the Allies do not fall into any Soviet snare—for instance, by appearing to reject a proposal for Indochinese peace talks.

Blind, Deaf Student Rated Near Top Of College Class

ALLIANCE, Ohio (U)—Finishing college near the top of his class is no snap for any student. Doing it while totally blind and deaf, in competition with students of normal vision and hearing, is tougher. But the feat is being accomplished by 30-year-old Richard Kinney of East Sparta in Stark County. He was one of the highest point averages in the history of Mount Union College here and may even by graduated summa cum laude.

To Kinney, the world is a thing of touch and smell and the memories of the days when he still could see its beauty and hear its bustle. Now his eyes and ears are in his sensitive hands, fed knowledge by the helpful fingers of a faithful fellow student.

The student, Ron Smith of Youngstown, Ohio, translates classroom lectures into meaning for Kinney by finger language—touching a certain part of his hand for a certain letter or number.

Since many of their classes do not correspond, Smith must go to school almost double-time. Much of Kinney's homework is from books not available in Braille, so Smith helps with that, too.

Kinney will be the third person in history to complete college work under the double handicaps of blindness and deafness, following Helen Keller and Robert Smithdas. Although he completed his senior work this week, he will not get his diploma until the regular commencement in June. His majors are English, history and psychology.

The story of his handicaps began in 1929 when he went blind in a period of two weeks and had to drop out of the second grade at East Sparta, where his father runs a hardware store. Still able to hear he learned Braille at the Waring School in Cleveland and studied through the Adlee Correspondence School of Winnetka, Ill., graduating as valedictorian of his high school class in 1942.

He entered Mount Union that fall, and then his hearing began to fail. In 1943, his sophomore year in college, his hearing disappeared entirely and he quit college.

Kinney said doctors never were able to explain to him the reasons for his loss of sight and hearing.

It was seven years before Kinney returned to college. During that period, he learned of Smithdas, who had been graduated from St. Johns College in New York under the same handicaps. They wrote to each other and Smithdas encouraged him to finish college.

Before he returned in 1951, Kinney learned the finger language. The first Mount Union student to help him in class was Richard Damm of Jefferson City, Mo. A year later Damm was graduated and Smith took over the job. Another student, John Wilson of Canton, Ohio, has helped relay information to Kinney in several classes. Wilson is blind, but not deaf.

During the time he dropped out of college, Kinney started a magazine subscription service, which he still maintains as a business-like pace.

Long before he steps on the Mount Union stage to receive his diploma, he will start a new job—a staff position with the Adlee Correspondence School.

He has had scholarships from Mount Union and from the Helen Keller Foundation.

Now, he says, "It's my turn to help others."

Since I started to take Renna I have lost 30 lbs. and I can eat just about everything. I no longer have that bloating or stomach trouble. Also the swelling of my limbs which I had before has disappeared, so I know this was caused by my carrying so much weight around. I would recommend Renna to anyone who is overweight, because you can lose weight, and you do not have to go hungry to do it."

Thousands have overcome the social and physical discomfort of being overweight with this effective home recipe. Obtain liquid Renna at your drug store, mix with grapefruit juice as directed and take two tablespoons twice a day. That's all there is to it. If reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't seem to disappear almost like magic with the very first bottle, just return it to the manufacturer for your money back. You need never know a hungry moment reducing with Renna.

Polio Campaign Leaders Explain How District Shares Fund Aid

Leaders of the 1954 March of Dimes in Pickaway County, urging new high contributions to the Mothers March on Polio set for Thursday night, have listed a variety of important facts relating to the local organization and the nationwide fund policy. The points are as follows:

Sixteen patients are now receiving aid from the local chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Pickaway County's drive last year raised $7,000, but it wasn't enough to meet expenses in the district.

The Pickaway County chapter can receive emergency financial aid from national headquarters.

March of Dimes funds are not loaned. They are given outright to families that need the aid.

The president, board of trustees, and the advisory committees on research and education for the national foundation are all volunteers who serve without pay.

There are only 443 paid workers on the national foundation's staff—269 who are directly connected with national headquarters of the vast organization, and 174 who are employed in the field.

All national foundation financial records at headquarters are audited annually by independent certified public accountants. The financial statement is published in the national foundation's annual report, and is available on request.

The records of individual chapters are checked locally and reports can be obtained at chapter offices.

Gamma globulin will be available free of charge to those who need it.

Vaccine used in public tests next summer will pass through three independent series of safety tests before any of it will be used in public inoculations. In addition to being tested by the manufacturer and the scientists who developed it, the vaccine will be given rigid tests by the U. S. Public Health Service to make certain of its safety.

The tests will be held in those counties with records that indicate:

1. High polio incidence for the past five years.
2. High epidemic rate in the past five years during the June-September period.
3. High attack rate in a specific age group.
4. Adequate health and educational facilities to conduct the tests.
5. Social and economic factors, and a geographical location, to provide a significant cross-section for the test studies.

Because Pickaway County has had a low polio rate in recent years—as compared to other sections of the country—it is unlikely this district will be selected as one of the test districts.

The new polio prevention plan is proving so costly that it has become necessary to revise the fund distribution system for the 1954 March of Dimes. One third of all net receipts from the March of Dimes will go to the polio prevention program. The remainder will be divided equally between local chapters for use in aid for local polio patients. And, in emergencies, to supplement national resources for epidemic aid. And to provide funds for national headquarters to finance scientific research, professional education, and emergency aid of various types to chapters.

In past years, local chapters actually used 73 per cent of the money raised, because so many of them—including Pickaway County—were forced to call upon national headquarters for emergency help.

The fight against polio, in Pickaway County and everywhere else in the nation, has changed from one of hope to one of great expectations for the years just ahead. We must bring a sense of great responsibility, and enthusiasm for a high cause, to the growing battle—for there is much that remains to be done before victory has been achieved.

Remember the light on the porch or in the window, while the Mothers March on Polio Thursday night!

New Method To Assist Forecasters

NEW YORK (AP)—Scientists say they will soon be able to tell the odds on whether it will rain or snow, be hot or cold tomorrow—but it takes an electronic brain to do it.

The new method of weather forecasting was described yesterday in a paper at the 127th national meeting of the American Meteorological Society.

So far, the scientists said, they are only processing temperature forecasts—"five to four it will hit 80."

But they soon hope to be able to say "two to one it will rain tomorrow" or "odds are even it will snow."

The technique, said to work anywhere in the country, was developed by Dr. Thomas F. Malone and Dr. George Wadsworth, Massachusetts Institute of Technology professors, and Don G. Friedman and Robert G. Miller, graduate students.

For the temperature forecasts, figures on barometric pressure in 91 different spots in North America are used in equations worked out by Dr. Wadsworth.

Only an electronic brain can do the mathematics, and it comes up with 14 numbers that give a full description of the pressure map of the continent.

These 14 numbers go back into the robot brain, are scrambled with information on the history of past pressure maps and, within minutes, out comes a table showing the temperature probabilities at any given location.

Picasso Painting Draws Complaint

EINDHOVEN, The Netherlands (AP)—Dutch art students were hot under the collar today because the Van Abbe Museum here plans to shell out $35,000 for a painting by Spanish-born Communist artist Pablo Picasso. They said they don't object to Picasso's politics or his artistic ability—they feel the museum has bypassed competent Dutch painters.

The students of the Applied Art School in Hertogenbosch mailed out a pamphlet to all Dutch art schools protesting the purchase. Students of the Applied Art School here, taking up the complaint, said they would demonstrate in front of the museum Saturday.

Shippers, Union Study Problems

WASHINGTON (AP)—Operators of U. S.-flag steamship lines and officials of the CIO and AFL maritime unions have reached a precedent-establishing agreement to work jointly in an effort to solve problems faced by the shipping industry.

A spokesman for the steamship lines said yesterday it was the first time in history that representatives of the union had met with steamship officials in such a campaign.

"We discussed ways of stopping the decline of the shipbuilding industry," the spokesman said, "and cleared the way for talks about shipping generally as well as wages and working conditions."

Radioactive Atom Electric Power Found

RCA's Discovery Seen Giving Each Home Its Own Lighting Plant

NEW YORK (AP)—A new method of converting the rays from radioactive atoms directly into useful electricity has been announced by the Radio Corp. of America.

The discovery may one day provide a matchbox-size power unit good for 20 years for lighting homes, running refrigerators and radios and television sets. It also might run hearing aids and wrist-watch radios or be a nearly permanent battery for automobiles.

David Sarnoff, RCA board chairman, announced the discovery yesterday.

It is a little battery smaller than the filter tip of a cigarette. Rays coming from a few salt grains of "cheap" radioactive atoms, which do not split, are turned into electric current.

Other methods have been used in the past to turn the locked-up energy of atoms directly into electricity, but this one is more efficient and thousands of times more powerful.

Until now, atomic power plants—like that in the new a-sub—have been run on heat from splitting atoms, with the heat making steam to generate electricity. Heavy equipment and shielding are required in these plants.

However, the battery unveiled in New York's Radio City yesterday is tiny, with its power coming from an almost invisible amount of radioactive strontium, a natural element.

Strontium-90, a waste product formed in atomic reactors when uranium-235 atoms split, was used in the battery. This strontium constantly shoots out radiation of several billion electrons each second. The new trick in the battery is to make each of these electrons from the strontium give birth to 200,000 more electrons.

This is done by a wafer of silicon, similar to a regular transistor, which is a tiny but potent substitute for vacuum tubes used to amplify current.

Electrons from the strontium race through the silicon wafer, each knocking loose 200,000 electrons from atoms of silicon. The electrons flow out as current.

The battery runs when the strontium is brought close to the silicon, and it stops when the strontium is pulled away. The strontium in this experimental battery is in the tip of a rod which is pushed into contact with the silicon wafer.

Only enough current—a millionth of a watt—was produced in the experimental battery to make a steady hum in a telephone ear-piece to which it was connected.

A telegraph key was connected to this circuit. And Sarnoff, once a Morse code operator, tapped out a pioneer message with electricity obtained by the direct conversion of atomic energy. It read:

"Atoms for peace. Man is still the greatest miracle and the greatest problem on this earth."

Student 'Tests' School With Blast

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—A Huntington high school student has admitted placing a homemade time bomb in his school locker "to see the reaction of teachers and students," Lt. Rush W. Bloss of the Fire Prevention Bureau said today.

Bloss said the 16-year-old student told of cutting a hole in the bottom of a wax candle large enough to hold a firecracker. He put the firecracker in the candle and lit it.

When the candle burned down to the firecracker, a loud blast came from the locker.

No charge was placed against the student.

Red Diplomatic Aide Disappears

TOKYO (AP)—A secretary of the defunct Russian diplomatic mission in Tokyo has disappeared and the mission has asked Japanese police to search for him, police officials reported today.

The mission—which is not recognized by the Japanese government—told police that Yuri Alexandrovich Rastvorov, 34, was suffering from a "nervous breakdown."

But the newspaper Tokyo Shimbun said it had learned from a reliable source that Rastvorov disappeared last Monday because he feared for his life.

Ammo Cutback Said Coming

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Brooks (D-La.), a member of the House Armed Services Committee, said today that a drastic cutback in production of ammunition likely will be necessary later this year.

"The rapidity with which we are replenishing supplies of ammunition is astonishing," Brooks said, adding that production is far beyond what Army ordnance experts expected.

PEIPING'S REAL AIMS

OBJECTIVES OF THE latest Peiping statement on Korea are revealed in the final paragraphs. Chou En-lai, foreign minister on the Red Chinese regime, obviously is not concerned with bringing about a political conference on Korea, but with pressing the claims of Communist China to recognition.

Chou serves notice on Moscow that his government expects the Russians to insist at the forthcoming Berlin meeting of foreign ministers, on the convening of a five-power conference on world settlements in which Red China would be seated as one of the great powers.

He renews at the same time his demand for resumption of United Nations discussion of Korea with representatives of Peiping and of North Korea participating. India's proposal for a meeting of the General Assembly on February 9 is keyed to this.

The long distributive seeking to fasten responsibility for the Korean delays on the United States, when they are in fact Communist caused, is mere propaganda. The Peiping foreign minister suggests resumption of the Panmunjom talks to arrange a Korean political conference, but offers not the slightest compromise. There is no evidence here of a real desire for agreement.

The United Nations was ready to begin the political conference last October 15, but Communist stalling prevented and continues to prevent it.

This latest statement strengthens fears that Red tactics will be to stall the Berlin conference when it convenes. Attempt to force Red China's recognition and its acceptance in the United Nations can only fail while Peiping continues to obstruct peace and justice in Korea and to encourage aggression in Indo-China.

But what basis was there for belief that Peiping would take a different attitude?

TURNING TO TURNPIKES

FOR SEVERAL YEARS the federal government has had under consideration a giant highway project, covering 40,000 miles of roads across the nation, to be built and maintained in behalf of military transportation.

Advent of the privately-financed turnpikes has given the first assurance that the plans, long on the drawing boards, could be translated into reality. Present state and Federal taxing systems are not adequate to meet the costs of such a staggering project.

Nearly 6,000 miles of turnpikes now are either in operation or projected for immediate construction. The principal artery will reach from the east coast as far west as Denver, while another, still in the planning stage, will link the Canadian border with the tip of Florida. All will follow the general pattern of the national system laid out by the government several years ago.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

General Lucius D. Clay, stating opposition to the Bricker Amendment, has this to say:

"...The necessity of calling Congress into special session and, even if Congress were already in session, holding committee hearings and floor debate, before the President could make such urgent and vital agreements as the arrangements with Great Britain and France for the Berlin Airlift would cripple our military strength to resist aggression just as effectively as the loss of a number of our best divisions or air wings."

That is a very good point to make because many Americans still wonder how it happened that by Executive Agreement, the United States got stuck with a zone in Berlin which has neither an entrance nor an exit except through Russian territory. That is why the stupendously costly Berlin Airlift was necessary.

One would expect anyone, when he assumed responsibility for an area, for the lives of the people in that area, for his own troops, would make provisions to get in and out of the place at all times and under any circumstances. This was not done with regard to Berlin.

When the Russians cut off our communications, it became necessary to devise the Berlin Airlift and those who devised it are to be praised for their efficiency in its operations. But why did no one think in advance about an entrance and an exit?

The American government should have known in 1943 (Teheran) and February, 1945 (Yalta) that Soviet Russia was no longer an ally. The zoning of Berlin was finally arranged by a declaration signed by Allied commanders at Berlin June 5, 1945. By that time there could have been no doubt as to Russia's duplicity. Nevertheless, the Americans went ahead accepting a zone without an entrance or an exit. And while American public opinion excited itself over the Berlin Airlift, which should never have been necessary, Soviet Russia literally walked off with China. So we got the zone of a German city and the Russians got China!

This is precisely the major reason for the stirring campaign for the Bricker Amendment. It is beyond belief that at the two Quebec Conferences, at several Moscow Conferences, at Teheran, Yalta and Potsdam deals were made and agreements signed which have, from any standpoint, involved us in a state of permanent war.

It is true that if the Bricker Amendment is adopted it will no longer be permissible to avoid writing a treaty over matters which truly require treaties; it will no longer be possible to do by Executive Agreement that which rightfully belongs in a treaty.

Green Haywood Hackworth, legal adviser to the State Department, in 1940, before a Committee of Congress, stated: "From the point of view of international law, treaties and Executive Agreements are alike in that both constitute equally binding obligations upon the nation. From the point of view of our constitutional law, however, there are important differences of substance as well as of form."

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE

DALE still augmented her long-distance calls to Swanscombe by the regular Thursday letters. I think I am finding my place here, Grandy, she wrote in one of her letters. At least, I am not stuck just in yesterday.

Good, the old man wrote back. Keep busy, and you won't have time to delve into tomorrow's needs.

Sound advice, and Dale leaned gratefully on the strength of it, although when she quoted that part of Grandy's letter to Andrea, the young concert pianist said quietly, "You could have thought that through yourself, you know. It's not so profound. It's just another 'Grandy said, isn't it?'"

"What's wrong with that?" Dale countered defensively.

"Nothing—if you were six years old. At that age you need a directive finger. I'd just like to see that grandfather of yours hand me blueprints for my life!"

On the evening before Don Parrish left for the conference in Canada, he and Dale dined together on the east side at Wivel's Swedish smorgasbord. The atmosphere was informal, the music and food good. Dale had dined here once with Phil, and they had placed hilarious wagers on the number of return trips an obese couple near by would make to replenish their plates. Watching mounds around mounds of food steadily vanish, Phil had murmured to Dale, "No profit for Wivel's on those two—and you owe me a buck!"

If Don was not as lively a dinner companion as his brother, he also was not tiresome, once Dale led the conversation around to the forthcoming conference.

"It's to be a sort of international exchange of ideas," he explained. "What goes on, and why, in the upper atmosphere. The topics will have a bearing on guided missiles, radar and high-frequency radio, with physicists from Germany, France, Norway, Sweden and Britain."

Dale smiled. "You must feel awfully superior, up there with all those top minds."

"And I sound like a stuffy old fogey!"

"No. But I do wonder why you bothered with me tonight. Shouldn't you be making a last-minute check of facts and figures, to have it all at your fingertips?"

"Yes, and I feel like a twelve-year-old truant," he said with enormous satisfaction. "Would you like to dance?"

Since that first night, Don was markedly improved. Tonight there was no need for apologies over his clumsiness, as they moved smoothly around the floor.

"I feel tense coils unwinding," he said, as they returned to their table. "I've been more keyed-up than I realized. I suppose there's such a thing as over-concentration, like overtraining for an athlete."

"In other words," Dale said teasingly, "a date with me is only a means to an end."

"You are good for me, Dale," he said, unexpectedly serious.

She lifted her eyes unreservedly to his. "And you, for me," she told him.

It was the truth. Don, self-reliant and undemanding, was a preventive against the emotion that Phil could arouse in her. Her responsiveness was something of which, lately, she was increasingly aware. It was involuntary and disconcerting. With Don, who had no matrimonial ideas in his head, and who did or said nothing to stir her from her detachment, she felt safe.

It would have been awkward to try to explain that to Don, although Phil would have understood. Too well! Phil would laugh straight into her eyes and want to know what was wrong with being human. And why fight it?

Don was drawing a circle with his fork on the tablecloth. Something in his avoidance of her eyes revealed embarrassment. Of shyness. Finally, with a rueful grin, he said, "I haven't known many girls. I never had time for them, and when I did take one out, we'd bog down on small talk and she'd stifle yawns. I had one topic of conversation: science. Not a moon-light-and-roses theme! It made me a very dull companion—undoubtedly it still does."

"No," she protested. "You're—restful."

He grimaced. "Is that a compliment?"

"Certainly!" But to clarify it, she turned serious. "So many people push at me, Don. I have to philosophize, 'is the curse of the country. It makes ye quarrel with neighbors. It makes ye shoot at the keep edging away from demands I can't answer."

His fork pressed four tiny holes in the cloth. "Dale, does Phil—" He broke off, reddening to his ears. "Forgive me. Nothing gives me the right to ask a question like that. X it out as evidence of my social clumsiness, will you? But—don't let my brother make a nuisance of himself, Dale."

She smiled. "I can handle Phil." But she thought, Why should it trouble Don?

"Phil," Don was saying, "has a way with girls. He always did."

A shift of tone, and it would have been derogatory or disloyal. Sensitive to his inflection, Dale said teasingly, "You sound wistful!"

"Just jealous, maybe." He grinned.

She looked incredulous. "But that's ridiculous! Phil envies you."

"Oh, rot. Why?"

"Your brilliance. Yours, and Andrea's. Your conspicuous success. You can get an awful crick in your neck from forever looking up." She added, "It can make you feel—inferior."

It was Don's turn to be unbelieving. "Phil's the most cocksure man I've ever known!"

"Why do you think he took a year off to write that book?" Don laughed disparagingly. "Everyone thinks he can write a book. I could myself, if I had time. That was a whim. Something he had to get out of his system."

"It was more than that," Dale said positively. "Phil was trying to prove something to himself."

"The book was a dud, so what does that prove?"

"When failure is a degree up in growth, it ought to go by another name," she said thoughtfully. "I think Phil has—grown."

"That stuff-brain," Don said affectionately.

She formulated a swift denial, but astonishment held back the words. That Don's raillery should have put her on the defensive, and aligned her on Phil's side, was in itself a revelation. It silenced Dale, and Don, back on the subject of the conference, was unaware of the storm he had aroused in Dale.

news behind the news

WASHINGTON — Influential political, diplomatic and agricultural interests are still trying to frame a formula under which millions of pounds of surplus butter may be sold to Russia without angering American housewives now paying about 80 cents for the product or using margarine as a substitute.

Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks' premature revelation of Muscovite interest was designed to test public sentiment over such a trade. He finances the $200 million worth of the product now in Uncle Sam's stockpile, based on purchases averaging 65 cents a pound. Then she is nicked for 80 cents!

But the significant factor is that Washington and Moscow representatives are now haggling only over the price to be paid, not over the question of whether it is advisable to aid Dictator Malenkov in raising the standards of living in his tasteless country. It has become a problem of kitchen economics rather than an affair of state.

Exra Taft Benson is not hostile to the deal for obvious reasons. He will soon own so much butter that he will not have adequate cold storage for it.

Millions of pounds bought by his predecessors will soon spoil, and he does not want that to happen on his time. Although bitterly anti-Russian, the dairy farmers of Wisconsin view the proposed transaction as a simple bread-and-butter matter.

Two formulas suggest themselves. If butter continues to back up on Uncle Sam, Benson may lower the price supports to 63 or 60 cents a pound. Dairy spokesmen are discussing with him a scheme under which two pounds of mixed grades would be sold to domestic consumers for a dollar, or about 50 cents a pound. That is the figure which the Reds are understood to be willing to pay.

Finally, if we do not enter some sort of David Harum deal, the business will go to the Scandinavian market. Moscow will get the butter somehow.

NOT HOSTILE — Agriculture

REVERSAL — President Eis-

enhower will suffer a major reverse on Capitol Hill over his relatively streamlined budget. But it will not be a personal or a political body blow because proposed congressional alterations will not wreck the federal financial structure. On the other hand, they may give the GOP a needed human epidemic the people like to vote for.

The 1955 deficit will amount to about $3 billion, assuming that Congress does not dot an "i" or cross a "t" of Ike's program. They will, however. The political financiers, and they have so informed Ike's agents, will insist on expiration or reduction of the excise and corporate taxes which end automatically on April 1. That will eliminate about $3 billion of current revenue, boosting the threatened deficit to $6 billion.

But the political tax experts plan to make up for half of this loss by eliminating $3 billion from the items of foreign and military aid and national defense. They will also fix drastic limits on the number of employees here and abroad. They figure that too many holdovers are "riding the gravy train," especially in Harold E. Stassen's overseas operation.

The boys admit frankly that only another tax reduction will save their skins next fall. And they have the backing of many economic authorities who advocate greater relief in order to cushion the country against a recession or depression.

PAY BOOST—Rep. T. Millet Haid of New Jersey vouchsafes the professional political veterans' opinion about the proposed pay boost for members of Congress. And his viewpoint is shared by many colleagues who know whereof they speak from their experiences after previous salary increases.

"Before any bill passes," says the Cape May man, "I want to go on record as saying that a $10,000 raise will net me only about $4,000 after taxes, give me approximately 19 more primary opponents, which will cost me that $4,000, and bring in at least 50,000 more requests for donations."

Girl Scout Association Elects Mrs. Walter Heine

Committee Reports Are Read At Meet

Annual reports of committees were given at a meeting of Circleville and Pickaway County Girl Scout Association held Wednesday evening in the social rooms of the Presbyterian church.

Mrs. Joseph Bell presided at a business session, during which a slate of officers was presented by Mrs. Everett Stocklen, chairman of a nominating committee, and was unanimously accepted.

Officers who will fill expired and unexpired terms on the Board of Directors include: Mrs. Walter Heine, commissioner; Mrs. Joseph Bell, deputy; Mrs. Charles Boggs, secretary; Mrs. Robert Brehmer, Jr., treasurer; Miss Doris Schreiner, intermediate program advisor, and Mrs. Louis Grace, Brownie program advisor.

Mrs. Robert Weaver, Juliette Lowe, advisor; Mrs. Richard Funk, chairman of Circleville Intermediate troop development; Mrs. Robert Dick, chairman of Circleville Brownie troop development; Mrs. Glen McCoy, Williamsport troop development; Mrs. Emerson Spicer, training committee chairman; and Mrs. Henry Reid Jr., public relations and publicity committee.

Mrs. Carle Snider reported program goals for 1953 are to include more participation in active citizenship and greater appreciation of living in a Democracy.

Miss Doris Schreiner gave training goals as better understanding of council member's work and closer cooperation among members of council.

Mrs. Collis Young reported public relations goals, which include cooperation with council aims and better public relations through community service, publicity and stressing the Girl Scout program.

Mrs. Joseph Adkins reported 117 girls had used the Girl Scout Lodge for troop camping during the year, and hoped for more activity at the Lodge during 1954.

Mrs. Sheldon Mader reported as goals in troop development, a striving for adequate leadership through a recruiting program, an attractive program for Senior Scouts and the establishment of more Brownie Troops.

Mrs. Mader stated that at the present time there are 3 Senior Scout Troops, 8 Intermediate troops and 7 Brownie Troops.

She also pointed out that Senior Scout Troop 10 is the only troop in Circleville that has gone from Brownies to Senior Scouting. Of interest is the fact that most of the girls in the troop today began to go as Brownies. The troop has had three leaders: Mrs. John Heinkel, Mrs. Harold Anderson and Mrs. Myron Schelb.

Mrs. Bell then turned the meeting over to Mrs. Walter Heine,

Films Are Shown As Scout Troop Badge Activity

Members of Girl Scout Troop 15, under the leadership of Mrs. A. P. McCoard of N. Pickaway St., viewed films on hospitality at their regular meeting held in the social rooms of the Presbyterian church.

The films, "Your Family" and "How Do You Do", were obtained through the rental service of the Pickaway County District Library, and were shown to the troop by Clayton Vaughan of Circleville Route 1.

Viewing of these films completed an activity required in working toward a Hostess badge.

Nylon Invades Linen Closet

Nylon has invaded linen closets in the form of bed sheets, according to Jane Schoppe, Ohio State University home furnishings specialist.

She reports these sheets are lightweight and sheer. Tests conducted by the manufacturer indicate nylon sheets will outwear ordinary sheets because of the strength and abrasion resistance of nylon. Sheets made with fitted corners will lie flat and stay securely in place.

Miss Schoppe says the quick-drying characteristic of nylon reduces drying time, and may reduce the total number of sheets needed. Their lack of bulk also saves shelf space.

'Clippity-Clop' Of 6 O'clock Horse Missing In Gotham Morn

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Manhattan has its own morning sounds that set it apart, just as a small town does, or a farm in the country, where alarm clocks wear feathers and boss a barnyard.

But the dawn sounds here are more mixed in mood . . . the wail of a fire or police siren, the clank of a garbage can against a sanitation truck, the wall-vibrating snore of the man next door and a cheery sound we miss the most, now that it is gone, the "clippity-clop-clop" of the 6 o'clock horse.

Let me tell you about that horse, and what he came to mean in a big tenement city.

One summer morning several years ago, shortly after we had moved into an apartment in a big 15-story brick hut by the East River, I wove to see my wife standing by the window with an alarm clock in her hand.

"Who are you going to drop that clock on?" I asked. "Don't you know it's against the law to bean anybody from a high window in New York?"

"Don't always talk so silly, Rover," said Frances. "I'm waiting to set this clock. It stopped during the night."

"What are you going to set it by—the morning star?"

"No," she said. "I'm going to set it by the 6 o'clock horse."

"What in the world is that?"

"Come and see."

I yawned my way to the window. A few moments later there sounded a distant "clippity-clop-clop." It grew louder. Then around the corner came a small elderly horse, driven by a small elderly man sitting atop a small elderly ice wagon shaded by a faded small elderly beach umbrella.

As the little dark sorrel animal and the creaking vehicle passed beneath our window, Frances set the clock and said: "That's the 6 o'clock horse. Haven't you heard him before? He's never more than a minute or two off any morning."

"He makes such a cute sound. And he looks so patient and nice. Sometimes that old man leans over and hits him with a little stick, but the 6 o'clock horse doesn't pay any attention to him. He always goes at just that same pace. Listen to him."

"Clippity - clop - clop, clippity-clop-clop," rang the hoofs of the 6 o'clock horse.

After that I heard him many a morning. In New York you aren't allowed to keep even a Shetland pony in an apartment; you have to fall in love with other people's horses. And the 6 o'clock horse became a pleasant part of our lives.

In summer he hauled ice, in winter wood. But every day he was punctual.

"He is just as punctual going back in the evenings," said Frances. "He comes by at exactly 5:30. I wish I had married a man as punctual as that little horse."

"Clippity-clop-clop" — through the years, through shower and sunshine, through fog and mist and snow. Wagon and man grew older, and so did the 6 o'clock horse. But he trotted at the same steady pace, "clippity-clop-clop."

One night I made plans to get up early the next morning and take down some carrot, and sugar lumps for the 6 o'clock horse. But I overslept, and awoke to hear his hoofbeats already fading away, and somehow after that I never managed to translate my good intention into a deed.

The other morning I awakened early and lazily watched the clock's hand crawl past 6 o'clock. No "clippity-clop-clop." At 6:15 I got up and went to the window and looked down. The street was bare in the cold dawn. No horse. I turned and saw Frances looking at me.

"I wondered when you'd miss him," she said. "He hasn't been by for weeks."

"What happened?"

"Nobody in the neighborhood knows," said Frances. "They all three were so old and looked so worn. Maybe the wagon just fell to pieces, or the old man died, or the little horse fell down and couldn't get up."

A brightness left the morning and every morning since then.

IS LEANING TOWER DOOMED?

Pisans Make Frantic Effort to Save It

By JERRY KLEIN
Written Especially for Central Press and This Newspaper

SWEDEN has come to the aid of Italy in a last-ditch attempt to save the Leaning Tower of Pisa from crumbling into the dust.

Despite such emergency moves as injecting cement into the foundation, the ancient tower has been getting even more crooked. Finally, Pisa sent a hurry call to the Swedish Geotechnical Institute.

The head of the institute, Walter Kjellman, arrived with one of his own inventions, a device for measuring slow-motion movements of the earth.

After studying conditions at Pisa, Kjellman recommended that Italy get busy propping up the leaning tower to prevent a disaster while long-range plans are developed.

It seems that the tower is so plumb now that if you dropped a plumb line from the top, it would fall about 16 feet off center.

THE SLOPE grows worse every year. In fact, a commission of engineers estimated that if the tower leaned just one more foot, its center of gravity would fall outside its foundation and down it would come.

Just recently, the local superintendent of monuments, Dr. Piero Sampaolosi, again warned that the Leaning Tower of Pisa would become a memory unless some way could be found to bolster it.

Dr. Sampaolosi is one of those who believe that Pisa's tower leans because its foundation was not laid properly in the soft, sandy soil.

In evidence, he points out that the tower started to slip almost soon as construction began. For instance, in the 10 years after Bonanno of Pisa began building the tower in 1174, it sloped 11 inches toward the south.

TO ACHIEVE balance, the architects ordered heavier marble to be placed on the tower's north side. Even the spiral staircase inside the tower was made heavier on the north. However, slippage continued and work was abandoned for 60 years.

Then, from 1272 to 1282, four more stories were added at a definite angle to counteract the list. However, this added weight merely increased the crookedness.

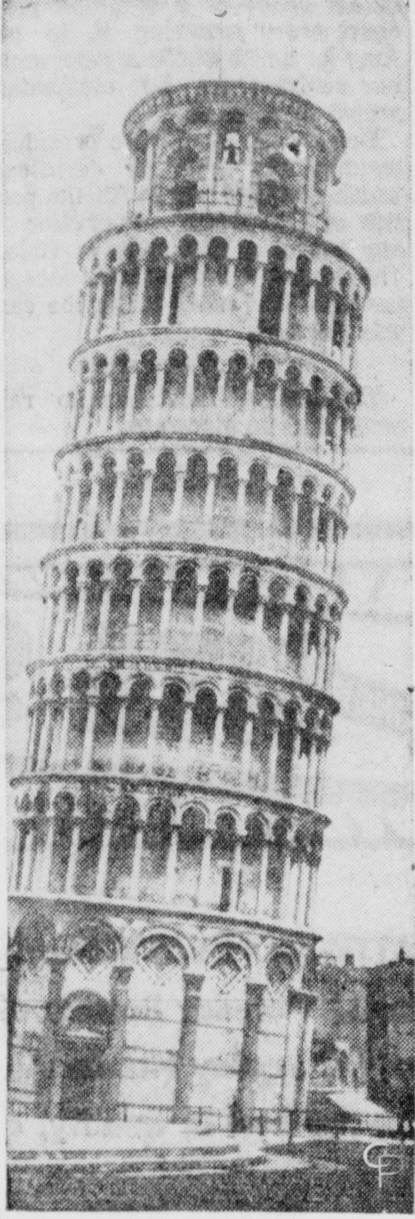

When the top story was added to the tower in 1350, it, too, was built at a different angle. So today, if the tower were pushed into an upright position, it would be as lumpy as a snake's back.

Opposed to Dr. Sampaolosi are many who believe the 179-foot tower was deliberately meant to lean. Exactly why it should have been built off-center is not clear, although legend has it that one of the designers was a hunchback who wanted the tower to mimic his own lopsidedness.

Incidentally, Pisa doesn't boast the only leaning tower. Strangely enough, some of the other towers erected in Italy at about the same time also appear to be falling.

The 320-foot Asinelli tower in nearby Bologna, for instance, leans four feet out of the perpendicular, and Bologna's Garisenda tower has a tilt of eight feet.

Originally, the towers were built as places of refuge in war or to hold cathedral bells. The belfry of the Leaning Tower of Pisa contains seven huge bells. However, they are seldom rung for fear the vibration would send the tower crashing down to the earth toward which it has reached ever since it was born.

The Leaning Tower of Pisa

Food Labeled Great Weapon In Battle For World Peace

COLUMBUS (AP)—"Food properly used is the greatest instrument for peace in all the world. Improperly handled it can lead to war," the Rev. Clyde N. Rogers told the pastors who met here today at the Ohio Pastors' Convention.

Director of the Town and Country Department of the Ohio Council of Churches, Rev. Mr. Rogers attended the first worldwide seminar on "The Church and Rural Life," sponsored by the World Council of Churches near Geneva, Switzerland, last summer.

While in Europe, he also traveled through the countryside, meeting agricultural, business, political and church leaders, interpreting the common problems of rural life.

While in Rome, Rev. Mr. Rogers visited the Food and Agriculture Organization headquarters. Commenting on his visit there he said:

"The thing that struck me again and again was the common concerns of these people regardless of the nation that might have been their original home. I came home feeling that FAO is doing an outstanding job and needs better support than it is receiving from Americans."

SPEAKING OF the refugee situation as he found it, Rev. Mr. Rogers said that they need at least four times as much food and clothing as we have been sending in order to meet minimum needs. He also stated that he found "workers, refugees, and pastors who are giving days and nights of service to the people who need their help, saying 'thank you' to the people of America for what they are doing."

More optimism in the pulpit was suggested last night by a Chicago clergyman addressing the annual banquet of the pastors.

"Give a little more hope to the people" by showing them the world is a good one, said the Rev. Charles Ray Goff, pastor of the Chicago Methodist Temple.

People have been talking as though God were disgusted with the world, he said. Actually, he continued, "God so loved it He gave His only begotten Son" for it.

"I do believe you can do more good by confirming your faith in front of people. It's a wonderful world, religion and faith," he said.

Prayer is the only way to God's presence, according to Dr. Nels F. S. Ferre of Vanderbilt University.

In the second of a series of three addresses on "Making Religion Real," Dr. Ferre yesterday told 1,500 ministers attending the pastors' convention:

"The man who prays is given power by God and he does not care what the world says. He is a free man, thank God. God is willing to give us more than we imagine, if we ask Him."

ANOTHER speaker on yesterday's program, Dr. William G. Pollard, executive director of the Oak Ridge, Tenn., Institute of Nuclear Studies, said the Bible is not the revelation of God to man.

It is, he said, the record of revelation as related by Hebrews and first Christians—"A great drama in the fortunes of a people who were singularly responsible" on the then world scene.

Dr. Pollard, an Episcopal deacon, said "the revelation is a direct, living I-Thou contact, whereby God, a living God, reveals Himself to man, not in words at all, but in acts."

Weekly Food Review

By Associated Press

The nation's food stores will feature a wide variety of meats this week—and at generally lower prices.

On the list of specials mentioned by a number of stores are rib roast, boneless chuck pot roast, stewing, roasting and frying chickens, pork loins, fresh ham, leg of lamb and sirloin and porterhouse steak. The best buys in fish include halibut, salmon, swordfish steak and fresh cod filets.

Beef prices generally will be unchanged to as much as six cents a pound lower than last week. Legs of lamb will be down two to four cents in many stores. And pork chops, which have been moving higher in recent weeks, will be down by from four to 1 cent a pound in various parts of the country.

You may find frying chickens a little higher in your store, although some markets will feature them at slightly lower prices.

Eggs show a tendency to rise. A number of stores will jack up prices by two to four cents a dozen. Butter prices will be much the same as a week ago.

Produce men added iceberg lettuce to the list of outstanding buys this week. Most of it is coming from California's Imperial Valley. Cabbage, both old and new, and onions and potatoes remain in the outstanding buy category.

Your Income Tax—

Some Exemptions Can Net Trouble

WASHINGTON (AP)—For most people, exemptions provide the biggest source of trouble for taxpayers. You get a $600 exemption for yourself and, within limits, $600 for each person who lives on your income.

Faulty exemption claims are the biggest source of trouble for taxpayers. So it is well to check up on whom you can claim.

Usually, when you make out an income tax form, one of the first things you do is list yourself and your immediate family as exemptions—your wife or husband and your children. Children include stepchildren and legally adopted youngsters, but you don't get an exemption for a child who made more than $599.99 during the year. Also, you must furnish more than half the child's support to claim an exemption. Age does not matter. You get full exemption for a child born during the year—right up to midnight Dec. 31, 1953.

You list your husband or wife as an exemption only on joint returns or on a separate return where your spouse had no income.

If you were over 65 or blind at the end of 1953 you get two exemptions. If you were both, you get three. That applies to both husband and wife.

You also can claim exemptions for close relatives. And this is often where trouble starts. To claim them for exemptions you must fill out Schedule I on Form 1040 or Schedule A on Form 1040A. Claims will not be allowed unless the schedules are filled out fully and they ask some pointed questions.

Here are the relatives which can qualify as exemptions under the law:

Parents, grandparents, brothers, sisters, grandchildren, stepchildren and brothers, stepdaughters, in-laws also qualify in the following categories: mother, father, brother, sister, daughter, son. In addition you can claim uncles, aunts, nephews and nieces if related to you by blood—you can't claim these relatives for both husband and wife except on a joint return.

But don't stop with degree of relationship. Such relatives may be claimed only if:

1. You furnished more than half their support in 1953.
2. Each one claimed did not earn more than $600 in the year.
3. They are citizens of the United States or residents of the United States, Canada or Mexico. (Better get an expert if there is doubt about what a resident is.)
4. The dependent relative does not file a joint return with his husband or wife.

BUCYRUS (AP)—Mrs. Ruth Rader of near Galion, who married her second husband when she thought her first one was dead, filed suit for divorce yesterday against Allen Howard Cook, whom she married Dec. 25, 1931, and who disappeared shortly thereafter.

Mrs. Rader said she was informed he was dead and married Donald E. Rader in 1933. Recently, she says, Cook, using the name Alvin Jack Enger and now living in Galion, presented himself to her and has been bothering her. She asks the divorce on grounds of neglect and wilful absence.

State Tax Appeals Board Is Upheld

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court has ruled the state tax appeals board was reasonable and acting legally when it upheld the tax commissioner's efficiency assessments against the Ohio Road Improvement Co.

The assessments resulted from increased valuations by the commissioner on company plants in Canton, Kenton, Lodi and Goshen Twp. School District of Mahoning County. He used a department formula in fixing an annual depreciation rate for the plants. R. H. Shafer, company president, said the depreciation rate was insufficient.

Teacher Upheld By High Court

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court has dismissed an appeal by the Lawrence County education board of a common pleas court order requiring it to pay Amy L. Smith $3,450 a year under her contract as an elementary school supervisor.

World Today

By James Marlow
Associated Press
News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—This time a year ago Sen. Bricker could claim the support of 64 senators, including himself, for his proposed amendment to the Constitution to limit treaty-making. He can't claim that many now.

It's doubtful the Ohio Republican could muster enough Senate votes to get his proposal through, although only two thirds of those present at voting time are needed—not two thirds, or 64, of the total of 96 senators.

His support began to melt under the heat from the White House which had been there for a year but didn't burst into flames until this week.

Then President Eisenhower said he was dead set against Bricker's project. This was enough to make some of Bricker's forces start looking for an exit.

They can use a handy excuse if they're accused of running out: a year ago they were backing Bricker's amendment. The one before the Senate now is less than the American Bar Ass'n's.

Bricker first offered his idea in the Senate in 1951. In 1952 the BA's House of Delegates, but not by unanimous vote, approved one of its own. ABA's was tougher. Bricker backs it wholeheartedly.

The two proposals were the product of long-time criticism and of fears.

The criticism was aimed at the wartime agreements made by Presidents Roosevelt and Truman with Stalin. A President, under the constitutional authority of his office, can make agreements with other governments. Eisenhower has done so.

Some day, perhaps, a president might deliberately use an agreement to avoid seeking the two-thirds Senate support which the Constitution requires if a treaty is made.

Therefore, the Bricker group argued, the Constitution should have some safeguard written into it specifically giving Congress authority to regulate executive agreements. That's one thing the Bricker amendment proposes.

But in the end, Bricker's critics say, this might do more damage than the kind Bricker is intent on preventing.

What does "regulate" mean? today it might mean to mean Congress could pass a law regulating an agreement. Tomorrow Congress might decide it had authority to make the President report on every step he took in foreign affairs.

In short, Bricker's critics protest, this kind of thing would give Congress full control of the conduct of foreign affairs, making the President a congressional messenger, thus destroying the separation of powers so carefully laid down by the Founding Fathers when they wrote the Constitution.

The Bricker group expressed alarm on another score: even though the Senate, whose members are elected from the states, does have control over treaties, some future Senate and president, unwarily or deliberately, might agree with some international organization on a treaty that would impair citizens' constitutional rights or the powers reserved to the states.

So the Bricker amendment would provide that a treaty could take effect as internal law only if Congress so provided—and it would limit Congress' action to those fields marked out for it in the Constitution.

Although Bricker denies this would give the 48 states a veto over treaties and the government's handling of foreign affairs, Eisenhower says it would do just that.

Bricker and his amendment didn't get to first base between 1951 and the end of 1952, but his supporters gathered strength around the country.

When 1953 ushered in the Eisenhower administration and Republican control of Congress, Bricker exuded confidence. But Eisenhower wasn't in the White House a month before two of his top aides, Secretary of State Dulles and Atty. Gen. Brownell, were arguing against these constitutional changes.

Eisenhower said he was willing to work out a compromise with Bricker but up to the time the Senate debate opened none had been reached. If at the last minute Eisenhower didn't take a strong, unmistakable stand against Bricker, there was still a chance the amendment might get through.

Eisenhower took his stand Tuesday by denouncing the amendment. At this time it seems the best Bricker can hope for is Senate approval on a compromise.

Lincoln Day Talk Booked By Ike

Miami Is Tagged Tops In Offense

NEW YORK (AP)—Basketball is going along this season almost ex-actly as it did last year, at least to the eyes of NCAA Service Bu-reau statisticians.

In their annual mid-season report of "trends" in major college play, the denumerators found today the current per-game averages for scoring, shooting accuracy and fouling are almost the same as last year's mid-season averages.

The No. 1 team in offense this week (through games of Tuesday) is Miami of Ohio, averaging 85.6 points a game, while the No. 1 de-fensive club is Oklahoma A&M with 50.2 points a game permitted.

Darby, Washington To Tangle For Junior High Championship

The fighting Darby basketballers and Washington's hard-hitting quin-ter are set to fight it out Saturday night for the championship of the 1954 Pickaway County Junior High School tournament.

In one of the most torrid con-tests yet played in the Walnut Township School gymnasium, the Darby cagers conclusively smashed the hopes of a battling Ashville five in the final game of the semi-finals Wednesday night.

Lusty fans cheered the Darbyites to a 45-35 victory over the hapless Ashvillians who tried desperately to recoup in the fourth frame when they made 14 points to 11 tallies for Darby.

Neither Ashville nor Darby had been beaten in county play this season.

IN THE other thriller of the evening, Atlanta's fighting squad was able to tie the score with Washing-ton by the end of the third chuk-ker, but was finally overpowered by Washington, 36-21.

All hopes of victory faded and a blanket of gloom fell upon the At-lanta rooting section when two of their best players, including high-scoring for the Atlantans, Martin, fouled out in the last quarter.

As a result of the Darby and Washington triumphs, the Ash-ville aggregation will be lined up against Atlanta in the Tournam-ent Consolation Game starting at 7:30 p. m. Saturday.

Darby's Ken Miller, Nance and Ned Musselman proved to be too powerful a trio for the Ashville five from the start. Miller had an 18-point game total.

Taking a 12-10 first-frame lead, Darby built up a 31-24 margin by the end of the third quarter, and never dropped behind.

DICK GLOOVER and Ashville's Neal were high scorers for the losers, netting a total of 13 and 10 points, respectively.

In the first semi-final clash, the expert ball-handling and ball-con-trol of Washington's towering cen-

Ohio State Chieftain Explains Athletic Scholarship Setup

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Substantial help for Ohio State athletes through an expanded scholarship program was disclosed today by Dr. Howard L. Bevis, university president.

The Board of Trustees has appropriated $30,000 to the new scholarship fund, "at least part of which" will be used to provide "quality scholarships" for deserving students who also happen to have athletic ability.

Half the fund, $15,000, will be provided from athletic receipts, as reported previously. The rest comes from the general funds of the university.

Deers Go To Scioto In One Of Six Tilts

The undefeated County League-leading Williamsport Deers invade Scioto for one of five loop encounters scheduled for Friday night.

The other four league engagements will see:

Salt Creek playing host to Monroe; New Holland invading Atlanta; Pickaway visiting the home grounds of the Darby Trojans, and the Jackson Wildcats hosting the Ashville Broncos.

In addition to these clashes on the hardwood courts, other fans will go to Stoutsville to see the Indians tangle with the Millersport five.

HAVING WON seven and lost none so far the Williamsport Deers are on top in the league standings.

The New Holland Bulldogs are second with a 7-1 record to date; while Atlanta and Ashville are tied for third with six wins and two losses each for a .750 game percentage.

Circleville Tigers Meet Wilmington On Friday Trip

The Circleville Tigers will be seeking their first South Central Ohio League victory of the 1953-54 season when they travel to Wilmington Friday night.

The powerful Wilmington Hurricane cagers forced a 13-13 first-quarter deadlock in their battle against undefeated Greenfield Tigers last Friday night, but finally lost to the league leaders 44-35. Greenfield is the only team that has beaten Wilmington to date.

The Circleville Tigers have played three and lost three circuit games so far—to Greenfield, Washington C. H. and Hillsboro.

DeMolays Nosed Out 66-65 In Coliseum Battle

In a see-saw tangle lasting most of the last half, the Circleville DeMolay quintet was nosed out 66-65 by the local A. & P. basketballers Wednesday night in the Fairgrounds Coliseum.

The A. & P. outfit jumped off to a slim 15-14 lead, with Charlie Waple and Pontius lopping them in with steady regularity, and built up their margin 34-29 at half-time.

Led by John Wardell, Marion Rhoades, Charley Hardin and Harley Evans, the DeMolays unleashed a terrific drive, however, that gave them a 51-48 third-frame lead.

The battle see-sawed from then on, but a last-minute bucket sunk the losers.

Lancaster Bowling Tournament Begins Here Friday Night

A total of 63 teams are entered for the annual tourney, which will be continued at 7 p. m. Saturday. Then matches resume at 1:30 p. m. Sunday and go until 9 p. m.

The last contests will take place the following weekend, starting at 7 p. m. Saturday, Feb. 6, and continuing through Sunday.

Hogan Is Favored In Thunderbird

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Thirty-six selected professional golfers, led by triple-crown champion Ben Hogan, tee off today in the $15,000 Thunderbird Country Club Invitational Tournament.

The 72-hole event, winding up Sunday, will be played over Thunderbird's 6,300-yard course.

Hogan, 1953 winner of the United States and British Opens and the Masters, was generally picked to win this tournament in one of his few appearances of the year.

Stengel Doesn't Know About 6th

NEW YORK (AP)—Casey Stengel says he doesn't know if his New York Yankees can make it six straight pennants. Seven other American League managers would like to have the same problem.

"Some of our pitching is too old,"

Moore Seeks Chance Now At Marciano

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Light-heavyweight champion Archie Moore, having finally disposed of Joey Maxim as a challenger, clamored today for a crack at Rocky Marciano's crown.

That target, however, may prove as elusive for Moore as the light-heavyweight title chance he pursued so many years. Chances are he will either fight Harold Johnson of Philadelphia or go back to South America on exhibition.

Marciano's opponents this year probably will be Dan Bucceroni in March and Ezzard Charles in June or September. Indications are the champ's manager, Al Weill, is working on a schedule that leaves Moore strictly out.

The powerful Moore smashed Maxim to the canvas twice last night as he scored his third and by far most decisive victory over the Cleveland jabber, the only man he has ever fought as a champion.

Referee Cy Gottfried gave Moore a 145-137 edge. Judge Marty Monroe saw it 148-135 for the champ and Judge Mark Erwin 148-134. Points were awarded under the new NBA system giving 10 points to the winner of each round and nine or less to the loser.

Archie's $46,800 purse was the biggest of his career. Maxim collected $23,400. A crowd of 16,375 paid an estimated gross gate of $89,000. Radio and television put another $50,000 into the pot.

A disappointed Maxim, blamed his defeat on rustiness. He said he wanted to "fight more often to get back in shape."

Officials Award Ironton Victory

IRONTON (AP)—Ironton High School yesterday was declared winner of a basketball game the players thought they had lost Tuesday.

Ashland of Kentucky, arch-rival of Ironton, had left the floor after the second overtime leading 66-65. But a check with Kentucky officials brought a different verdict. They said Ironton actually won 61-60 when senior guard Mike McComas scored the first two-point basket early in the sudden-death second overtime period.

Turnpike Hearing Shunned By Court

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court has refused to review lower court decisions striking down objections of J. Russell McKarns and Edith B. Lehman of Williams County to appropriation of their land for a right of way for the Northern Ohio Turnpike.

Both property owners denied the commission sought an agreement on compensation and damages for a reasonable time before going to court.

Ohio Payrolls Said Showing Decline

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Bureau of Business Research at Ohio State University reports Ohio payrolls declined 2 per cent from last October to November but remained 4 per cent above the level for the preceding year.

Among major Ohio cities, only Toledo showed an increase from October to November in average weekly gross earnings. Toledo's increase was 1 per cent. The average gross earnings were $78.46.

he said yesterday. "We need more pitching if it's not on the farms. I don't know if we can win No. 6. Any club that wins too often gets careless. I know I said last fall we'd win six, seven and eight. Now I don't know."

Sokolsky's These Days

"Treaties may be negotiated which depart widely from our existing laws or policies, and the Senate in approving their ratification is subject to no restraint or consideration within the general limits of the treaty-making power under our form of government other than what is best for our nation. But the President in making Executive Agreements has no such free hand. He must act scrupulously within the laws and conform to the policies already established by the Congress."

While this is a correct definition of treaties, Executive Agreements and their differences, the history of our international relations establishes confusion not stipulated in this definition. Theodore Roosevelt stated the case as follows:

"The Constitution did not explicitly give me power to bring about the necessary agreement with Santo Domingo. But the Constitution did not forbid my doing what I did. I put the agreement into effect, and I continued its execution for two years before the Senate acted; and I would have continued it until the end of my term, if necessary, without any action by Congress. But it was far preferable that there should be action by Congress, so that we might be proceeding under a treaty which was the law of the land and not merely by a direction of the Chief Executive which would lapse when that particular executive left office. I therefore did my best to get the Senate to ratify what I had done."

His successors were not so meticulous. An average refrigerator contains more than 1,400 parts.

What's wrong with fruit as a subject? All the great museums have prized canvases of fruit painted by the Dutch masters—some of whom are my ancestors!—and this painting is destined for some fortunate museum!

Don't tell me you've decided to paint that old hack of fruit again, as your entry in the art competition. Well, if you must, why not try a new slant—paint 'em in a bon voyage basket!

IS THE NAME GIVEN TO A FEMALE ASCETIC. THESE THOUGH RARE AMONG THE HINDUS, ARE COMMON AMONG THE JAINES. THIS IS CURIOUS IN VIEW OF THE FACT THAT AMONG THE JAINES THE MEMBERS OF ONE SEX TOTALLY DENY THE POSSIBILITY OF A WOMAN OBTAINING SALVATION. FOLLOWERS OF ANOTHER SECT ADMIT THAT SUCH A THING IS POSSIBLE, AND IT IS TO THIS THAT THE WOMEN ASCETICS GIVE THEIR ADHESION. (INDIA)
